WEATHER PROBABILITIES .- War Department, Office of the Chief Signal Officer, Wash ington. D. THE RIVALS .- A very large audience of our best people filled Peabody Hall last night to witness the production of Sheridan's inimitable comedy, "The Rivals," by the selected dramatic talent of this section of Virginia. The auditorium was crowded before eight, and when, at that time, the curtain rose on the piece, the stage effects and the easy running of the play from first to last won over the critics of the audience to the side of the actors.

The entertainment was a complete and per feet success from the rioging up of the curtain to the end. This is a wonderful circumstance considering the fact that "The Rivals" is one of the most difficult comedies in the history of the drama to produce successfully. When suc cessfully produced it is exceedingly interesting and amusing, as was evidenced last night.

The particularly peculiar comic power of Col. M. D. Ball in the leading role of Bob Acres, held the fort of popularity with the spectators. Throughout Col. Ball played with the dash and ease of a professional, and, in every look, gesthat elever lady, Sheridan's humorous conception received the completest justice.

Miss Lydia Languish was impersonated by Miss M. E. Brent in the graceful style and elegant manner so natural and appertenant to and graciousness of bearing that is simply marvelous in any but the most finished actress. .

Our journalistic neighbor, Mr. Geo. Douglas. of the Capital, gave us a Sir Lucius O' Trigger as was designed by the author, an easy, careless, polished Irish gentleman. By his impersonation Mr. Douglas exhibited the familiarity with stage details that we presume years of professional experience as a critic have given

Miss Bessie Clagett in the trying role of Julia was all that that character calls for; tender, graceful and beautiful, and so carnest that in the pathetic phases genuine tears welled from her eyes. In Mr. Courtland II. Smith, Julia found a polished lover and a well-trained reader. The difficult lines of Faulkland Mr. Smith turned into happy use, and acted throughout with great talent. He was called before the curtain by the audience to receive their hearty applause.

Mr. Alexander Hunter in point of "make up," carriage and action, was the perfect prototype of the original, impetuous, arrogant, cholerie, Sir Anthony Absolute, hotheaded and quarrelsome on the surface, but kindly hearted and a generous gentleman in reality. Mr. Southern weak and 5c lower; Western opened was warmly applauded in every weak and 3c lower, ruled quiet and closed firm appearance by the audience. > The Mr. Fag of Mr. Sam. Breet was characterized by a complete conception of the character, well begue and clearly carried through to the end The David of Mr. Carrol Ashby was very happily executed, and, as Acres' major domo. Mr. Ashby showed considerable of that country squire's success. Mr. James Fowle was a splendid Thomas; his only error being that he is too handsome a gentleman for that part, though we presume he doesn't mind being hand ome.

Miss Alice Breut was a clever and pretty map.

Col. Ball and Mr. C. H. Smith were the re pients of floral cributes in compliment to their pleasant acting.

Generally and specifically the play was a great success in stage effect; in all points it was as nearly perfect as can be arrived at in this world of imperiest things. The stage was peculiarly handsomely decorated, and the serors eleganty "made up," which was due in great measure to the graceful and kiedly presence and aid of Mrs. C. H. Smith and Mrs. J. H. Reid, who acted as stage managers and superintendents. The scenery-street and wood-were furnished by Mr. Harry Ford. of the National theatre, and the thacks of the company are specially due to Mr. Green, of this city, who acted as stage carcenter, and rendered very material assistance. Another perfermance of the Rivals will be given to-night, and a matince at 3:30 Thursday.

THE COAL TRADE. - The following items of nterest are from the Cumberland Alleganian: The shipments of coal from Clearfield for the week ending April 20, the last report, show a great falling off as compared with previous shipments, and a difference of 24,000 tons in Secretary. favor of Cumberland coal. Clearfield coal is also shipped by the short too. Beston in favor of the Clearfield coal as compared with Cumberland; and yet the latter gets the large portion of the trade.

While some large contracts have been made for Cumberland coal, a considerable number of consumers are still holding off in anticipation of a further dec'ine. The opinion here is that our coal has reached its lowest price.

The Boston and Lowell Railroad have contracted for 20,000 tens of coal at Georgetown.

BOAT RACE, -The Baltimore Sun says that the boat race, which is to take place at Washington on the 24th instant between crews of the Undice Club of Baltimore and the Analos tan of Washington, is arousing considerable interest. The two crews as they are now made up are as follows: — Undives—J. H. C. Walter, stroke; Dr. J. I. Inglehart, No. 3; E. I. Whitlesey, No. 2, and Richard K. Cross, bow. Anglostans-Stroke, J. R. ROBBERIES .- The store of Mr. George W. Taylor, at Accokeck, Prices George's co., Md., was entered by thieves on Monday night and robbed of about one hundred dollars worth of groceries. The robbers effected an entrance by prying off some of the weather boarding of the store. This is the second time within twelve months that Mr. Taylor has been robbed, the first time being by Simpson and Henry, shortly before they murdered young Everett at Glymont. Last night some unknown thickes ton, N. J., yesterday, and pleaded not guilty. tried to force an entrance into the store of Mr. Wm. H. The attempt was made at a rear door opening on a yard which is entered used as a pry, and one of the sockets into which the lower bar fits was forced from its place. The door had, however, a large bar at the top which the robbers could not move, and hence had to abandon their attempt, after badly disfiguring the door. Mr. May keeps no money or valuables about his store and says be will give the key to any party desiring to enter it they will let his papers alone.

"BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF ALEXANDRIA, VA." Hard times and dull business are the general complaints, but if every merchant in our city would bring life to their business like you can see it at Isaac Eichberg's (the successor of Slaymaker Co.,) Alexandria would be far more advanced in a commercial point of view. If you just take a glance there and post yourself in prices, you will perceive that it is not necessary for our country merchants to go to Baltimore and buy their dry goods and notions for reason of not finding the goods to suit, or prices at the bottom. This house does a driving, extensive wholesale business on a basis the same as any wholesale house in the North; is connected with leading manufacturers, and you can select your goods at New York or Baltimore quotations, received every morning by telegraph. Besides all these advantages Mr. Eichberg has secured the services of Mr. Henry Schwarz, who is well posted in the dry goods market, and whose duty and business are nothing else but to watch the market and to attend all the leading auctions in the North every week. With a close attention to business, a splendid stock on hand, and new goods arriving daily, which are sold out quickly with small profits, this house is doing a live business. Come down with your old prices and hold your business and your customers by being up to the times. Call and examine Mr. Eichberg's stock and you will say Alexandria is the cheapest market for dry goods. Yours, &c.,
